OUR MISSION IS SIMPLE:

Better Value Housing for New Zealanders
Houses that don't only look great. They are equally matched in quality and sustainability.

Houses that are lower cost to keep, and more comfortable all year round. Warmer in winter and cooler in summer. Houses that remain the investment they were always meant to be.

Sadly too many kiwi homes have cost us too much for the value they provided. Only a few short months or years and they started to fail, fall apart, leak or much much worse...simply losing value due to poor design or bad choice of materials or inferior quality.

We aim to revolutionize the industry through better value products and fairer supply chain principles.

good COP vs bad COP

Coefficient of Performance (COP) measures how efficiently a heat pump converts energy into hot water. While conventional systems typically achieve a COP of 1.0, high-performance heat pumps can reach 2.5–4.0, delivering up to 4x greater energy efficiency.
